DeBartola asked Council to reconsider amending the budget to include a budget for the City of Johnstown Ethics Board given some conflicts of interest.

Larry Blalock, 423 Main Street, Johnstown, addressed Council regarding increased police funding. He stated there was a greater need for a healthcare advocate and mental health suicide response team for those struggling with mental health issues. He inquired as to why a meeting requested by Put People First! had not been responded to and would the hiring of more police solve the problem of abuse. Mr. Blalock asked the City to consider the needs of the people during the budget process.

Lonnie Rietscha, 121 Davis Street, Johnstown, stated, as a City taxpayer who sees drug activity occurring on an almost daily basis in his community, he totally disagreed with the stand of Put People First! He suggested more dogs and more police presence.

REPORTS:

CITY MANAGER:

John Trant, Jr., Interim City Manager, referred Council members to a detailed organizational chart per their request.

With regard to Put People First!, the Mayor noted receiving numerous letters with no names, signatures, phone numbers or addresses to receive a response. He offered to participate in a meeting with the group.

Mr. Janakovic explained that mental health is covered at the County, State and Federal level. The City is not licensed to be a mental health provider and involved in those types of services. He did remind all of the availability of organizations such as Crisis Interventions and Social Services. He noted a clear distinction between funding for the two services. A grant for the police would be specific to the police and not available for the crisis or mental health services. He requested Mr. Ricci or Mr. Blalock contact him with regard to setting up a meeting.

Councilman Capriotti commented on the condition of Osborne Street and McKinley and Boyd Avenues in the Eighth Ward. He stated the streets were starting to "heave pretty significantly where sewer work was done," similar to what happened on Franklin and Plainfield Streets.

Mayor Janakovic indicated that money was allocated for those projects in the budget every year, which had not been before. Mr. Trant noted that $800,000 was budgeted for these types of projects. There was further discussion regarding the matter.

COUNCIL UPDATES:

She noted there were some provisions making reference to violations of other City provisions or ordinances relating to those topics, but it directs on the same topics, a conflict of interest between elected officials with respect to the award of contracts or acceptance of gifts or political contributions.

Ms. Benjamin further explained that the City's Ethic Board would investigate on a local level but has the same duties, the same obligations and responsibilities as the State Ethics Commission would have upon receiving the same complaint.

Counsel stated the City's ordinance, which Council is now free to amend, was adopted via voter referendum originally and ratified by Council once adopted by the voters. She noted the ordinance was the subject to a two-year delay and any opportunity to amend. The ordinance could now be amended or altered. One difference noted was the timeline to complete investigations, issue advisory opinions, and conduct investigations. There was further discussion regarding the matter.

Ms. Benjamin explained that the Ethics Board was created via ordinance. Council has the power to take action to repeal that ordinance, but such action could be accomplished at this meeting.

The City Manager and Ms. Benjamin were directed to prepare an ordinance implementing the repeal and the abolishment of the Board. Ms. Benjamin noted the ordinance would appear on next month's agenda.
